INSTRUCTIONS

This document is about informed consent. It will tell you about permanent lash liner, its risks, and other treatment options.

It is important that you read this whole document carefully. Please initial each page. Doing so means you have read the page. Signing the consent agreement means that you agree to the surgery that you have talked about with your plastic surgeon.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Permanent makeup uses a natural iron oxide pigment. It is made for facial application. In micro pigmentation, pigment is added to the skin to give a natural-looking color. This treatment cannot be undone. It is permanent. The results may fade over time, and you may need touch-up treatments. However, it may not be possible to remove the pigment. Laser treatments may change the pigment color.

OTHER TREATMENTS

Other forms of treatment include using eyeliner. All treatments have their own risks and potential problems.

RISKS OF PERMANENT LASH LINER

Every procedure has risks. It is important that you understand the risks and possible problems that come with this procedure. Every procedure has limits. Choosing to have a procedure means comparing the risks and benefits. Most patients do not face problems, but you should talk about them with your plastic surgeon. Make sure you understand all possible outcomes of permanent lash liner.

SPECIFIC RISKS OF PERMANENT LASH LINER

Bruising:

You may see bruising after the procedure. It should not last more than a day or two.

Infection:

It is rare, but you can get an infection after the procedure. If you do, you may need more treatment. This could include antibiotics, time in the hospital, or surgery. You need to tell your permanent lash liner technician about any infection like toenails that grow inward, insect bites, tooth problems, or urinary infections. An infection in another part of your body can lead to an infection in the treated area.

Skin Discoloration/Swelling:

You may see swelling after the treatment. The skin at or near the treatment site can look lighter or darker than the skin around it. It is rare but swelling and skin discoloration can last a long time. In rare cases, it may be permanent.

Poor Results:

You can expect good results. However, there is no guarantee for the results. A person's body is not symmetrical. Almost everyone has some level of unevenness. It may not be visible before the treatment. For example, one side of a face may be a little larger or one side of the face may sag. If you have realistic ideas about the treatment, the results will look better. Some patients do not reach their goals.

It is not the fault of the technician or the treatment. Poor results may NOT improve with more treatment.

Scarring:

All procedures that involve cutting skin can leave scars. Some are easier to see than others. You can expect your wound to heal after receiving the permanent lash liner, but you may get visible scars that are permanent. Scars may look bad and be a different color than your other skin. These scars may be raised and red in the first few weeks or months. They usually fade over time. However, some patients can have “hypertrophic” or “keloid” scars, which means you can clearly see and feel them. They may be red, and do not go away. You may need more treatments, like medication and/or surgery.

Touch-Up Treatments:

The permanent lash liner technician will do everything possible to ensure a good outcome. However, unexpected events can occur that may need more treatments.

Skin Sensitivity:

Your skin may be itchy, tender, or very sensitive to hot or cold temperatures after the procedure. This usually goes away during healing. In rare cases, it may last a long time.

Damage to Eye Structures:

It is very unlikely, but there is a risk of injury to the eye and the area around it. Injuries to this area may be temporary or permanent.

Pain:

You may feel pain after your procedure.

Allergic Reactions:

In rare cases, you may have allergic reactions to the pigment, medication, or injected agents. Serious systemic reactions like shock (anaphylaxis) may come from drugs used during surgery and prescription medicines. Allergic reactions may require more treatment. You should tell your doctor about any allergic reactions you have had.

Drug Reactions:

You may have unexpected drug allergies. You may not respond to medication or you may fall ill from the prescribed drugs. You should inform your doctor of any problems you have had with any medication or allergies to medication, prescribed or over the counter. You should tell your doctor about the medications you take regularly. Give your surgeon a list of your current medications and supplements.
